What cookies are

Cookies are small text files that a website places on your device so it can recognize you and remember information. We also use similar technologies, such as pixels, local storage and software development kits, and we call all of them "cookies" in this notice.

Session cookies disappear when you close your browser. Persistent cookies stay for a set period. First-party cookies are set by Dream Captain. Third-party cookies are set by other companies whose services we use.

Third-party cookies and technologies

Some cookies come from service providers that help us run Dream Captain, such as analytics, payment processing, email delivery and embedded content. They set their own cookies under their own policies, and we require them to use the information only to serve us. [List each provider and a link to its policy here once your site's tools are chosen.]

If we later use advertising technologies, such as an ad-measurement pixel from a social network, we will list them here and keep them off until you opt in.

Global Privacy Control

We honor the Global Privacy Control (GPC) signal. When your browser sends it, we treat it as a request to opt out of the sale or sharing of your personal information and we keep advertising and targeting cookies off for that browser, without asking you to take further steps. See our Do Not Sell or Share My Personal Information page for more.
